PART 2

GENERAL PROVISIONS REGARDING WRITTEN LAW

Acts to be public Acts

3. Every Act is a public Act, and is to be judicially noticed as such unless the contrary is expressly provided by the Act.

Acts to be divided into sections without introductory words

4. All Acts are to be divided into sections, if there be more enactments than one, which sections are deemed to be substantive enactments without any introductory words.

Schedules

5. Every Schedule to an Act, together with any note thereto, is to be construed and has effect as part of the Act.

Subdivisions of Acts

6. When an Act is divided into Parts, Chapters, titles or other subdivisions, the fact and particulars of the division are, with or without express mention thereof in the Act, to be taken notice of in all courts and for all purposes.

Forms

7. Except as is otherwise expressly provided, whenever forms are prescribed, slight deviations therefrom, not affecting the substance or calculated to mislead, do not invalidate them.

Examples and illustrations

7A. Where an Act includes an example or illustration of the operation of a provision —

- (a) the example or illustration is not to be taken as exhaustive; and
- (b) if the example or illustration is inconsistent with the provision, the provision prevails.

Mode of referring to written laws

8.—(1) It is sufficient for all purposes to refer to a written law —

- (a) in the case of an Act —
 - (i) by the year of its enactment and its number among the Acts enacted in that year;
 - (ii) where the Act, as enacted or revised, provides that it may be cited by a short title — by that short title; and
 - (iii) where the Act is a revised edition published before 1 March 2021 under any law providing for a revised edition — by its chapter number and the year of the revised edition; and
- (b) in the case of a piece of subsidiary legislation that, as made or revised, provides for the manner of its citation — by that citation.

[4/2021]

(2) A reference for the purposes of subsection (1) may be made according to copies of written laws printed by the Government Printer.

[4/2021]

(3) Unless the contrary intention appears, a reference to a written law in accordance with subsection (1) is to be read as a reference to the written law as amended from time to time by any other written law.

[4/2021]

(4) Where —

(a) a written law is referred to by its short title or citation, whether in any other written law or in any document; and

(b) the short title or citation is subsequently changed, the reference is to be read, unless the contrary intention appears, as a reference to the changed short title or citation.

[4/2021]

Construction in an Act of references to sections, etc.

9.—(1) Where in any Act there is a reference to a section, Part, Chapter or Schedule by number or letter only, and not in conjunction with the title or number of an Act, the reference is to be construed as a reference to the section, Part, Chapter or Schedule of that number or letter contained in the Act in which the reference occurs.

(2) Where in any section of an Act there is a reference to a subsection, paragraph or sub-paragraph by number or letter only, the reference is to be construed as a reference to the subsection, paragraph or sub-paragraph of that number or letter contained in the section in which the reference occurs.

(3) This section applies, with suitable modification, to subsidiary legislation.

Purposive interpretation of written law and use of extrinsic materials

9A.—(1) In the interpretation of a provision of a written law, an interpretation that would promote the purpose or object underlying the written law (whether that purpose or object is expressly stated in the written law or not) is to be preferred to an interpretation that would not promote that purpose or object.

(2) Subject to subsection (4), in the interpretation of a provision of a written law, if any material not forming part of the written law is capable of assisting in the ascertainment of the meaning of the provision, consideration may be given to that material —

- (a) to confirm that the meaning of the provision is the ordinary meaning conveyed by the text of the provision taking into account its context in the written law and the purpose or object underlying the written law; or
- (b) to ascertain the meaning of the provision when —
 - (i) the provision is ambiguous or obscure; or
 - (ii) the ordinary meaning conveyed by the text of the provision taking into account its context in the written law and the purpose or object underlying the written law leads to a result that is manifestly absurd or unreasonable.

(3) Without limiting subsection (2), the material that may be considered in accordance with that subsection in the interpretation of a provision of a written law includes —

- (a) all matters not forming part of the written law that are set out in the document containing the text of the written law as printed by the Government Printer;
- (b) any explanatory statement relating to the Bill containing the provision;
- (c) the speech made in Parliament by a Minister on the occasion of the moving by that Minister of a motion that the Bill containing the provision be read a second time in Parliament;
- (d) any relevant material in any official record of debates in Parliament;
- (e) any treaty or other international agreement that is referred to in the written law; and
- (f) any document that is declared by the written law to be a relevant document for the purposes of this section.

(4) In determining whether consideration should be given to any material in accordance with subsection (2), or in determining the weight to be given to any such material, regard must be had, in addition to any other relevant matters, to —

- (a) the desirability of persons being able to rely on the ordinary meaning conveyed by the text of the provision taking into account its context in the written law and the purpose or object underlying the written law; and
- (b) the need to avoid prolonging legal or other proceedings without compensating advantage.

Changes to style not to affect meaning

9B. Where —

- (a) a provision of an Act has expressed an idea in a particular form of words; and
- (b) a revised edition or a later provision of that Act, or a later Act, appears to have expressed the same idea in a different form of words for the purpose of using a clearer style, the ideas are not to be taken to be different merely because different forms of words were used.

[4/2021]

Time of commencement of written law

10.—(1) A written law or a provision of a written law comes into operation —

- (a) where a particular day for its coming into operation is specified by the written law or by a notification made under the written law — on the expiration of the previous day; or
- (b) where the day of its coming into operation is the date of its publication in the Gazette — on the expiration of the previous day.

(2) Where a written law is to come into operation on a day specified by a notification made under the written law, the notification may specify different days for different provisions of the written law to come into operation.

Effect of repeal of Act on subsidiary legislation made thereunder

11. Where any Act or part of an Act is repealed, subsidiary legislation issued under or made in virtue thereof remains in force so far as it is not inconsistent with the repealing Act and unless the contrary intention appears until it has been revoked or replaced by subsidiary legislation issued or made under the provisions of the repealing Act.

Repeal of repealing laws

12. Where any written law repealing in whole or in part any former written law is itself repealed, the last repeal does not revive the written law or the provisions previously repealed, unless words are added reviving that written law or those provisions.

Repeal of amended law to include amendments

13. Where any written law which has been amended by any other written law is itself repealed, the repeal is deemed to include the repeal of all written laws or parts of written laws by which the firstmentioned written law has been amended.

Repeal and substitution

14. Where a written law repeals wholly or in part any former written law and substitutes other provision therefor, the repealed written law remains in force until the substituted provision comes into operation.

References to amended and re-enacted provisions

15.—(1) Where in any written law a reference is made to another written law, the reference is, except where the context otherwise requires, deemed to include a reference to the last mentioned written law as the same may from time to time be amended.

(2) Where any written law repeals and re-enacts, with or without modification, any provision of a former written law, then, unless the contrary intention appears —

- (a) any reference in any other written law to the provision so repealed is to be construed as a reference to the provision so re-enacted;
- (b) insofar as any subsidiary legislation made or other thing done under the provision so repealed, or having effect as if so made or done, could have been made or done under the provision so re-enacted, it has effect as if made or done under that provision.

Effect of repeal

16.—(1) Where a written law repeals in whole or in part any other written law, then, unless the contrary intention appears, the repeal does not —

- (a) revive anything not in force or existing at the time at which the repeal takes effect;
- (b) affect the previous operation of any written law so repealed or anything duly done or suffered under any written law so repealed;
- (c) affect any right, privilege, obligation or liability acquired, accrued or incurred under any written law so repealed;
- (d) affect any penalty, forfeiture or punishment incurred in respect of any offence committed against any written law so repealed; or

SUBSIDIARY LEGISLATION

General provisions with respect to power given to any authority to make subsidiary legislation

19. When any Act confers powers on any authority to make subsidiary legislation, the following provisions have effect with reference to the making and operation of the subsidiary legislation unless the contrary intention appears:

- (a) subsidiary legislation may at any time be amended, varied, rescinded or revoked by the same authority and in the same manner by and in which it was made subject to the following provisions:

- (i) where any Act is to come into operation on a date to be fixed by subsidiary legislation, the power to make the subsidiary legislation does not include the power of amending, revoking or suspending the same; and

Anticipatory exercise of powers

22. Where an Act or any part thereof does not come into operation immediately on its passing and the Act or that part confers power (or amends another Act to confer power) to make subsidiary legislation or to make appointments or to issue notifications or to prescribe forms or to do any other thing for the purposes of the Act or that part (or the Act being amended), then, unless the contrary intention appears, the power may be exercised and any subsidiary legislation, appointment, form or thing made, issued, prescribed or done under the power may be made, issued, prescribed or done so as to take effect at any time after the passing of the Act so far as may be necessary or expedient for the purpose of —

Acts done under subsidiary legislation to be deemed to be done under Act

26. An act is deemed to be done under any Act or by virtue of the powers conferred by any Act or in pursuance or execution of the powers of, or under the authority of any Act, if it is done under, or by virtue of, or in pursuance of, subsidiary legislation made under any power contained in the Act.

Reference to Act to include subsidiary legislation

26A. Unless the contrary intention appears, a reference in any written law to an Act is to be construed so as to include a reference to any subsidiary legislation made under that Act.

(2) Where a written law confers a power or imposes a duty on the holder of an office as such, then, unless the contrary intention appears, the power may be exercised and the duty must be performed by the holder of the office for the time being or by a person duly appointed to act for him or her.

(3) Where any Act confers a power to make subsidiary legislation, to issue any order or to do any act, the power is, unless the contrary intention appears, to be construed as including the power exercisable in like manner and subject to the like consent and conditions (if any) to amend, vary, rescind, revoke or suspend the subsidiary legislation made or order issued or any part thereof or to abstain from doing the act.

Power to appoint includes power to dismiss

28.—(1) Where a written law confers upon any person or authority a power to make appointments to any office or place, the power is, unless the contrary intention appears, to be construed as including a power to dismiss or suspend any person appointed and to appoint another person temporarily in the place of any person so suspended or in place of any sick or absent holder of the office or place.

(2) Where the power of the person or authority to make appointments is only exercisable upon the recommendation or subject to the approval or consent of some other person or authority, the power of dismissal is, unless the contrary intention appears, only exercisable upon the recommendation or subject to the approval or consent of that other person or authority.

Construction of enabling words

Appointments having retrospective effect

32. Any appointment may be declared to have effect as from the date upon which the appointee commenced to exercise the powers and discharge the duties of his or her appointment, not being a date earlier than the date of the commencement of the written law under which the appointment is made.

Power of majority, quorum, etc., of board, etc.

34.—(1) Where any power is conferred upon the President to make any subsidiary legislation or appointment, give any direction, issue any order, authorise any thing or matter to be done, grant any exemption, remit any fee or penalty or exercise any other power under any written law, it is sufficient if the exercise of such power by the President is signified under the hand of any Minister or the Secretary to the Cabinet.

(2) Subsection (1) does not apply to the power of the President to make or issue any warrants or proclamations which may be made or issued only under the hand of the President himself or herself.

Signification of orders, etc., of Minister

35. Where any written law confers upon a Minister power to make any subsidiary legislation or appointment, give any direction, issue any order, authorise any thing or matter to be done, grant any exemption, remit any fee or penalty or exercise any other power, it is sufficient, unless in the written law it is otherwise provided, if the exercise of such power by the Minister is signified under the hand of the Permanent Secretary to the Ministry for which the Minister is responsible or of any public officer duly authorised in writing by the Minister.

Subsidiary legislation by statutory body, etc.

35A.—(1) Where a statutory body is permitted by any written law to delegate the performance of any of the statutory body's functions or the exercise of any of the statutory body's powers, that power to delegate does not extend to the power to make any subsidiary legislation.

[5/2018]

(2) Where any Act confers upon a statutory body power to make subsidiary legislation, it is sufficient, unless in such Act it is otherwise provided, if the exercise of that power by the statutory body is signified under the hand of —

(b) a member of the statutory body duly authorised by that body to do so in place of the chairperson.

[5/2018]

Delegation of powers of Minister

36.—(1) Where in any written law a Minister is empowered to exercise any power or perform any duty, the Minister may, in the absence of any provision of law to the contrary, with the approval of the President and by notification in the Gazette, depute any person by name or the person for the time being discharging the duties of an office designated by the Minister to exercise that power or perform that duty on behalf of the Minister subject to such conditions, exceptions and qualifications as the President may determine.

(2) Thereupon or from the date specified by the President, the person so deputed has and may exercise that power and perform that duty.

(3) Nothing in subsection (1) authorises a Minister to depute any person to make subsidiary legislation under the power in that behalf conferred upon the Minister by any Act.

(4) The Minister may exercise any power or perform any duty conferred upon him or her by an Act despite the delegation by the Minister of that power or duty.

Signing of documents

Imposition of penalty not a bar to civil action

39. The imposition of a penalty by any written law, in the absence of express provision to the contrary, does not relieve any person from liability to answer for damages to a person injured.

Provisions as to offences under 2 or more laws

40. Where any act or omission constitutes an offence under 2 or more written laws, the offender shall, unless the contrary intention appears, be liable to be prosecuted and punished under any one of those written laws but shall not be liable to be punished twice for the same offence.

(5) To avoid doubt, any application that —

- (a) was made to a Court before 1 January 2006 under any written law to which subsection (1) applies; and
