isolate the consignment of the essential construction material at premises in respect of which a storage permit is granted, and arrange for a sample to be taken as soon as practicable from that consignment by any person acting by or under the authority of the Authority and for the sample to be evaluated by an authorised analyst for the purposes of this Part.

(5) Where a licensee who has imported any essential construction material fails to comply with subsection (4), the licensee shall be guilty of an offence and shall be liable on conviction to a fine not exceeding $10,000 or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding 12 months or to both.

(6) An enforcement officer or assisting officer or any other person acting by or under the authority of the Authority may at any time take, without payment, sufficient samples of any essential construction material from a consignment thereof imported by a licensee (whether in any premises or in any conveyance that is being used to transport the consignment) for the purpose of evaluation by an authorised analyst for the purposes of this Part, regardless of whether that consignment is subject to an isolation order.

(7) All samples of any material taken in accordance with subsection (4) or (6) shall be taken and dealt with as prescribed.

(8) The costs of and incidental to the evaluation of any essential construction material required by this section shall be borne by the Authority.

(2) An evaluation of any essential construction material for the purposes of this Part may be carried out by any authorised analyst but not any other.

(3) An authorised analyst shall, on completing his evaluation of any essential construction material for the purposes of this Part, issue to the Authority a certificate stating the authorised analyst's findings, and shall submit a copy of that certificate to the Authority within the prescribed time.

(4) Upon receiving any certificate of an authorised analyst under subsection (3) relating to any consignment of essential construction material imported by a licensee, the Authority shall without delay consider the findings of the authorised analyst to determine whether the quality of the essential construction material is of acceptable quality for use in any building works, street works or railway works in Singapore.

(5) Any quantity of any essential construction material found in any premises or in or on any conveyance at the time when a sample thereof is taken pursuant to the provisions of this Part shall, until the contrary is proved, be presumed to possess the same properties as such sample.

Singapore the essential construction material extracted or won from the same site as that from which the failed construction material was extracted or won, except under such circumstances, in such manner and within such time as may be approved by the Authority.

(5) Where the failed construction material is a sample taken for evaluation under section 31J(6), the licensee to whom a notice in subsection (3)(b) is given shall, in addition to complying with the requirements of subsection (4)(a) and (b), at his own expense and within the prescribed time, notify in the prescribed manner —

- (b) the Authority of the identity and business address of every such person in paragraph (a) so notified.

(6) Where a licensee to whom subsection (4) or (5) applies fails to remove the failed construction material and other essential construction material from Singapore or destroy or otherwise dispose of it in accordance with the manner prescribed —

- (a) an enforcement officer or assisting officer may take such steps as he thinks fit to secure the removal, destruction or disposal of the failed construction material and other essential construction material; and
- (b) the Authority may recover from that licensee (as a debt due to the Authority) any costs and expenses reasonably incurred by the enforcement officer or assisting officer in doing so.

(7) Subsection (4)(b) shall not prejudice the enforcement by any person of any right or claim against a licensee on whom a direction under that subsection is served or by such a licensee of any right or claim against any person.

(8) The licensee concerned shall bear the costs of and incidental to any evaluation of any essential construction material required in connection with the licensee seeking the approval of the Authority under subsection (4)(b).

Authorised analysts and evidence
