An Act to give effect to the United Nations Convention on International Settlement Agreements Resulting from Mediation, also known as the Singapore Convention on Mediation, opened for signature on 7 August 2019 in Singapore, and to make related amendments to certain other Acts.

Be it enacted by the President with the advice and consent of the Parliament of Singapore, as follows:

Short title and commencement

1. This Act is the Singapore Convention on Mediation Act 2020 and comes into operation on a date that the Minister appoints by notification in the Gazette.

Interpretation

2.—(1) In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires —

“Convention” means the United Nations Convention on International Settlement Agreements Resulting from Mediation, also known as the Singapore Convention on Mediation, opened for signature on 7 August 2019 in Singapore, a copy of the English text of which is set out in the Schedule;

“international settlement agreement” means a settlement agreement to which this Act applies under section 3;

“mediation” means a process (whether referred to by the expression “mediation” or “conciliation” or any term of similar import) —

(a) by which the parties to the mediation attempt to reach an amicable settlement of their dispute with the assistance of one or more third parties (called in this Act the mediator); and

(b) in which the mediator lacks the authority to impose a solution upon the parties to the dispute;

“parties”, in relation to a mediation, does not include any mediator conducting the mediation;

“settlement agreement” means an agreement resulting from mediation and concluded in writing by the parties to the mediation to resolve a commercial dispute.

(2) For the purposes of the definition of “settlement agreement” in subsection (1) —

- (a) a settlement agreement is in writing if the contents of the settlement agreement are recorded in any form; and
- (b) the requirement that a settlement agreement be in writing is met by an electronic communication if the information contained in the communication is accessible to be useable for subsequent reference.

(3) For the purposes of this Act, a reference to a State is to be read in conformity with articles 12 and 13 of the Convention.

(4) A reference in this Act to the High Court is, on or after the date of commencement of the Supreme Court of Judicature (Amendment) Act 2019 (Act 40 of 2019), a reference to the General Division of the High Court.

(5) A reference in this Act to the Court of Appeal is, on or after the date of commencement of the Supreme Court of Judicature (Amendment) Act 2019, a reference to the Appellate Division of the High Court or the Court of Appeal.

Application of Act

3.—(1) Subject to subsection (2), this Act applies to a settlement agreement which, at the time of its conclusion, is international within the meaning of article 1, paragraph 1(a) and (b), read with article 2, paragraph 1, of the Convention.

(2) This Act does not apply to —

- (a) a settlement agreement mentioned in article 1, paragraph 2 or 3 of the Convention; or
- (b) a settlement agreement in relation to which a reservation by Singapore under article 8 of the Convention has been made and the reservation is not withdrawn.

(3) Articles 12 and 13 of the Convention apply to the interpretation of the articles of the Convention mentioned in subsections (1) and (2).

(4) This Act binds the Government.

Applications in respect of international settlement agreements

4.—(1) Subject to this Act, a party to an international settlement agreement may —

(a) apply to the High Court to record the agreement as an order of court for the purposes of —

(i) enforcing the agreement in Singapore; or

(ii) invoking the agreement in any court proceedings in Singapore involving a dispute concerning a matter that the party to the international settlement agreement claims was already resolved by the agreement, in order to prove that the matter has already been resolved; or

(b) in any proceedings in the High Court (whether exercising its original or appellate jurisdiction), or in any proceedings in the Court of Appeal —

(i) to which the party to the international settlement agreement is a party; and

(ii) which involves a dispute concerning a matter that the party claims was already resolved by the agreement,

apply to the High Court or the Court of Appeal (as the case may be) to invoke the agreement in the proceedings in order to prove that the matter has already been resolved.

(2) This section does not limit or restrict any right or remedy of a party to an international settlement agreement that exists or may arise apart from this Act.

Grant of leave to record international settlement agreement as order of High Court

5.—(1) The High Court may, following an application under section 4(1)(a), grant leave to record an international settlement agreement as an order of court if the requirements of this Act are complied with.

- (a) may be enforced in the same manner as a judgment given, or an order made, by the High Court; and
 - (b) may be relied on by the party who made the application under section 4(1)(a) by way of defence, set-off or otherwise in any court proceedings.

Requirements for applications under section 4

6.—(1) A party to an international settlement agreement making an application mentioned in section 4(1) must provide to the court before which the application is made the following documents and evidence:

- (a) the international settlement agreement signed by the parties to the agreement or a certified copy of the signed agreement;
- (b) evidence that the international settlement agreement resulted from mediation, such as —
 - (i) the signature on the international settlement agreement of the mediator conducting the mediation;

 - (iii) an attestation by the institution that administered the mediation; or
 - (iv) in the absence of sub-paragraph (i), (ii) or (iii), any other evidence acceptable to the court before which the application is made.

(2) A requirement under subsection (1) that the international settlement agreement be signed by the parties to the agreement or by the mediator conducting the mediation that resulted in the international settlement agreement is met, in relation to an electronic communication, if —

- (a) a method is used to identify the parties or the mediator (as the case may be) and to indicate the parties' or mediator's intention (as the case may be) in respect of the information contained in the electronic communication; and
- (b) the method used is either —
 - (i) as reliable as is appropriate for the purpose for which the electronic communication was generated or communicated, in the light of all the circumstances, including any relevant agreement; or
 - (ii) proven in fact to have fulfilled the functions described in paragraph (a), by itself or together with further evidence.

(3) A party to the international settlement agreement making an application mentioned in section 4(1) may be required by the court before which the application is made to provide any necessary document in order to verify that the requirements of the Convention have been complied with.

(4) If the international settlement agreement is not in English, the international settlement agreement must be accompanied by a certified translation of it in the English language.

- (b) in the manner determined by the court before which the application mentioned in section 4(1) is made.

Grounds for refusing application

7.—(1) The court before which an application mentioned in section 4(1) is made may, at the request of the party (called “A”) against whom the international settlement agreement is sought to be enforced or invoked, refuse to grant the application if A furnishes proof of any of the grounds set out in subsection (2).

- (ii) the failure to disclose mentioned in sub-paragraph (i) had a material impact or undue influence on a party, without which failure that party would not have entered into the international settlement agreement.

(3) In addition to subsection (1), the court before which an application mentioned in section 4(1) is made may also refuse to grant the application if —

- (a) it would be contrary to the public policy of Singapore for the application to be granted; or
- (b) the subject matter of the dispute purported to be settled by the international settlement agreement is not capable of settlement by mediation under the law in force in Singapore.

Setting aside of order of court

8. Where an international settlement agreement has been recorded as an order of court under section 5(2) in the absence of the party against whom the order of court is sought to be enforced or invoked, the High Court may, upon the application of that party, set aside the order of court on any ground on which the High Court may refuse to grant the application mentioned in section 4(1)(a) to record the international settlement agreement as an order of court.

Parallel applications or claims

9. If an application or a claim relating to an international settlement agreement has been made to a court of any State, any arbitral tribunal or any other competent authority which may affect the grant of an application mentioned in section 4(1), the court before which the application mentioned in section 4(1) is made may —

THE SCHEDULE

Section 2(1)

UNITED NATIONS CONVENTION ON INTERNATIONAL SETTLEMENT AGREEMENTS RESULTING FROM MEDIATION

PREAMBLE

The Parties to this Convention,

Recognizing the value for international trade of mediation as a method for settling commercial disputes in which the parties in dispute request a third person or persons to assist them in their attempt to settle the dispute amicably,

Noting that mediation is increasingly used in international and domestic commercial practice as an alternative to litigation,

Considering that the use of mediation results in significant benefits, such as reducing the instances where a dispute leads to the termination of a commercial relationship, facilitating the administration of international transactions by commercial parties and producing savings in the administration of justice by States,

Convinced that the establishment of a framework for international settlement agreements resulting from mediation that is acceptable to States with different legal, social and economic systems would contribute to the development of harmonious international economic relations,

Have agreed as follows:

Article 1. Scope of application

1. This Convention applies to an agreement resulting from mediation and concluded in writing by parties to resolve a commercial dispute (“settlement agreement”) which, at the time of its conclusion, is international in that:

- (a) At least two parties to the settlement agreement have their places of business in different States; or
- (b) The State in which the parties to the settlement agreement have their places of business is different from either:
 - (i) The State in which a substantial part of the obligations under the settlement agreement is performed; or

Article 2. Definitions

1. For the purposes of article 1, paragraph 1:

 - (b) If a party does not have a place of business, reference is to be made to the party's habitual residence.
2. A settlement agreement is "in writing" if its content is recorded in any form. The requirement that a settlement agreement be in writing is met by an electronic communication if the information contained therein is accessible so as to be useable for subsequent reference.
3. THE SCHEDULE — continued

2. The competent authority of the Party to the Convention where relief is sought under article 4 may also refuse to grant relief if it finds that:
