Disclosure of audiovisual recording of statement to persons other than accused and accused's advocate

4.—(1) This rule applies to every audiovisual recording of a statement recorded under section 22 or 23 of the Code in the form of an audiovisual recording.

(2) Subject to compliance with paragraph (3), any of the following persons may be permitted, by the investigation officer of an offence that the accused is charged with or by the supervisor of that officer, to attend a viewing of an audiovisual recording mentioned in paragraph (1) together with the defence:

PART 3

BAIL AND BONDS

5.—(1) For the purposes of sections 92(3), 93(3B) and 95(1)(b) of the Code, a court must have regard to all of the following in deciding whether a person or an accused, if released, will not surrender to custody, be available for investigations or attend court:

- (a) the person or accused is not a citizen or permanent resident of Singapore;
- (b) the person or accused is not domiciled in Singapore;
- (c) the background, antecedents, employment history, occupation, home environment, community ties and financial position of the person or accused;

 - (i) there is evidence (for instance, of the doing of a preparatory act) that the person or accused does not intend to surrender to custody, be available for investigations or attend court, if the person or accused is released on bail or on personal bond.

(2) To avoid doubt, the court is not confined to the matters in paragraph (1) when deciding whether a person or an accused, if released, will not surrender to custody, be available for investigations or attend court.

Prescribed conditions for release

6.—(1) For the purposes of section 95(2)(c) of the Code, an accused, who has been arrested or taken into custody under a warrant issued under section 10, 24 or 34 of the Extradition Act (Cap. 103) or endorsed under section 33 of that Act, may be released on bail if any of the following is satisfied:

- (a) the accused is a juvenile;
- (b) the accused is sick or infirm;
- (c) the foreign jurisdiction, which makes the requisition for the surrender of the accused, provides an undertaking that the foreign jurisdiction does not oppose the granting of bail to the accused on the conditions imposed under section 94 of the Code, and either or both of the following apply:
 - (i) the accused would have been granted bail under the law of that foreign jurisdiction, if the accused had been apprehended in that foreign jurisdiction for the offence to which that requisition relates;

- (ii) the act or omission constituting the offence to which that requisition relates would, if it took place in or within Singapore, constitute a bailable offence.

(2) A certificate given, or a declaration made, by a foreign jurisdiction or under the law of a foreign jurisdiction, certifying or declaring that, under the law of that foreign jurisdiction, the accused would have been granted bail, is admissible, in proceedings for the release of the accused on bail or on personal bond, as prima facie evidence of the matters stated in the certificate or declaration.

(3) In this rule, “accused” includes a fugitive as defined in the Extradition Act.

STANDARD ALLOCUTION FOR ACCUSED-IN-PERSON AT CRIMINAL CASE
DISCLOSURE CONFERENCE IN STATE COURTS
(SECTION 164)

The prosecution has served on you the Case for the Prosecution. The Case for the Prosecution must contain —

- (a) the charge which the prosecution intends to proceed with against you at trial;
- (b) a summary of the facts in support of the charge;
- (c) a list of names of the witnesses that the prosecution will be calling to testify at your trial;
- (d) a list of the exhibits that the prosecution intends to admit as evidence at your trial;
- (e) any written statement that you may have made at any time, and that was recorded by an officer of a law enforcement agency under any law, which the prosecution intends to admit as evidence as part of the prosecution's case;
- (f) a list of every statement that you may have made at any time to an officer of a law enforcement agency under any law, that is recorded in the form of an audiovisual recording, and that the prosecution intends to adduce in evidence as part of the prosecution's case; and
- (g) for every such statement that is recorded in the form of an audiovisual recording, a transcript (if any) of the audiovisual recording of that statement.

Where the documents mentioned earlier have been provided to you, the prosecution must, if requested by you, arrange for you to view the audiovisual recording of each statement recorded in the form of an audiovisual recording.

You should go through the Case for the Prosecution, and ensure that you understand its contents.

If you require more time to review your position, you may apply to the Court for an adjournment. You must state your reasons why the Court should consider granting you such an adjournment. Whether the Court grants an adjournment is a matter for the Court to decide.

If you intend to plead guilty to the charge against you, you may inform the Court of this now.

How do you wish to proceed?

{If the accused person does not indicate that he/she either wishes to seek an adjournment or plead guilty to the charge(s), the following shall be administered.}

You are required to file with this Court a copy of your Case for the Defence. You must also serve a copy of your Case for the Defence on the prosecution, and on every co-accused, if any, who is claiming trial with you. This must be done no later than 2 weeks from today, that is, no later than [date].

Your Case for the Defence must contain —

- (a) a summary of your defence to the charge, and the facts in support of your defence;
- (b) a list of names of the witnesses that you intend to call to testify at your trial;
- (c) a list of exhibits that you intend to admit as evidence at the trial; and
- (d) any objections to any issue of fact in relation to any matter contained in the Case for the Prosecution.

If you raise any objections to any issue of fact on which evidence will be produced by you, you should state the nature of the objection.

If you do not file your Case for the Defence on the Court and serve it on the prosecution and on every other co-accused, if any, the Court may draw any inference that it thinks fit at your trial. The Court may also draw any inference as it thinks fit if your Case for the Defence does not contain all the mandatory documents and information mentioned earlier. If you put forward a case at trial that differs from, or is inconsistent with the Case for the Defence that you had filed and served, the Court may also draw such inference as it thinks fit. The inferences drawn by the Court may include an inference that is bad for your case.

Within 2 weeks after you file your Case for the Defence with the Court and serve it on the prosecution and on every co-accused, if any, the prosecution will provide you with copies of the following:

- (a) every other written statement given by you and recorded by an officer of a law enforcement agency under any law in relation to the charge or charges that the prosecution intends to proceed with against you at trial;
- (b) for every other statement given by you and recorded, in the form of an audiovisual recording, by an officer of a law enforcement agency under any law in relation to the charge or charges that the prosecution intends to proceed with against you at the trial, a transcript (if any) of the audiovisual recording of the statement;
- (c) every documentary exhibit mentioned in the Case for the Prosecution;
- (d) if you pay the prescribed fee of [amount], any criminal records that you may have.

Where the documents mentioned earlier have been provided to you, the prosecution must, if requested by you, arrange for you to view the audiovisual recording of each statement recorded in the form of an audiovisual recording.

The documents mentioned earlier will not be given to you, and the prosecution need not arrange for the viewing mentioned earlier, if you do not file and serve your Case for the Defence. However, the prosecution may still adduce these statements, exhibits or records as evidence at the trial.

Where your Case for the Defence has been served on the prosecution, you must, within 2 weeks after the date on which your Case for the Defence is served, serve on the prosecution a copy of each documentary exhibit that is mentioned in your Case for the Defence and is in your possession, custody or power. {This paragraph does not apply to the accused person in any case where the accused person was charged before 17 September 2018.}

The Court may draw any inference as it thinks fit if you fail to serve on the prosecution a copy of each documentary exhibit that is mentioned in your Case for the Defence and is in your possession, custody or power. The inferences drawn by the Court may include an inference that is bad for your case.

FORM 48

STANDARD ALLOCUTION FOR ACCUSED-IN-PERSON AT CRIMINAL CASE DISCLOSURE CONFERENCE AFTER CASE
HAS BEEN TRANSMITTED TO THE GENERAL DIVISION OF HIGH COURT
(SECTION 216)

The prosecution has served on you the Case for the Prosecution. The Case for the Prosecution must contain —

- (a) a copy of the charge which the prosecution intends to proceed with against you at trial;
- (b) a list of names of the witnesses that the prosecution will be calling to testify at your trial;
- (c) a list of the exhibits that the prosecution intends to admit as evidence at your trial;
- (d) the statements of witnesses that are intended by the prosecution to be admitted at the trial;
- (e) any written statement that you may have made at any time, and that was recorded by an officer of a law enforcement agency under any law, which the prosecution intends to adduce in evidence as part of the prosecution's case;
- (f) a list of every statement that you may have made at any time to an officer of a law enforcement agency under any law, that is recorded in the form of an audiovisual recording, and that the prosecution intends to adduce in evidence as part of the prosecution's case; and
- (g) for every such statement that is recorded in the form of an audiovisual recording, a transcript (if any) of the audiovisual recording of that statement.

Where the documents mentioned earlier have been provided to you, the prosecution must, if requested by you, arrange for you to view the audiovisual recording of each statement recorded in the form of an audiovisual recording.

You should go through the Case for the Prosecution, and ensure that you understand its contents.

If you require more time to review your position, you may apply to the Court for an adjournment. You must state your reasons why the Court should consider granting you such an adjournment. Whether the Court grants an adjournment is a matter for the Court to decide.

If you intend to plead guilty to the charge against you, you may inform the Court of this now.

How do you wish to proceed?

{If the accused person does not indicate that he/she either wishes to seek an adjournment or plead guilty to the charge(s), the following shall be administered.}

You may choose to file with this Court a copy of your Case for the Defence. If you choose to do so, you must also serve a copy of your Case for the Defence on the prosecution, and on every co-accused, if any, who is claiming trial with you. This must be done no later than 2 weeks from today, that is, no later than [date].

Your Case for the Defence must contain —

- (a) a summary of your defence to the charge, and the facts in support of your defence;
- (b) a list of names of the witnesses that you intend to call to testify at your trial;
- (c) a list of exhibits that you intend to admit as evidence at the trial; and
- (d) any objections to any issue of fact in relation to any matter contained in the Case for the Prosecution.

If you raise any objections to any issue of fact on which evidence will be produced by you, you should state the nature of the objection.

If your Case for the Defence does not contain all the mandatory documents and information mentioned earlier, the Court may draw any inference as it thinks fit at your trial. If you put forward a case at trial that differs from, or is inconsistent with the Case for the Defence that you had filed and served, the Court may also draw such inference as it thinks fit. The inferences drawn by the Court may include an inference that is bad for your case.

Within 2 weeks after you file your Case for the Defence with the Court and serve it on the prosecution and on every co-accused, if any, the prosecution will provide you with copies of the following:

- (a) every other written statement given by you and recorded by an officer of a law enforcement agency under any law in relation to the charge or charges that the prosecution intends to proceed with against you at trial;
- (b) for every other statement given by you and recorded, in the form of an audiovisual recording, by an officer of a law enforcement agency under any law in relation to the charge or charges that the prosecution intends to proceed with against you at the trial, a transcript (if any) of the audiovisual recording of the statement;
- (c) if you pay the prescribed fee of [amount], any criminal records that you may have.

Where the documents mentioned earlier have been provided to you, the prosecution must, if requested by you, arrange for you to view the audiovisual recording of each statement recorded in the form of an audiovisual recording.

The documents mentioned earlier will not be given to you, and the prosecution need not arrange for the viewing mentioned earlier, if you do not file and serve your Case for the Defence. However, the prosecution may still adduce these statements, exhibits or records as evidence at the trial.

Where your Case for the Defence has been served on the prosecution, you must, within 2 weeks after the date on which your Case for the Defence is served, serve on the prosecution a copy of each documentary exhibit that is set out in the list of exhibits mentioned in your Case for the Defence and is in your possession, custody or power. {This paragraph does not apply to the accused person in any case where the accused person was charged before 17 September 2018.}

The Court may draw any inference as it thinks fit if you fail to serve on the prosecution a copy of each documentary exhibit that is mentioned in your Case for the Defence and is in your possession, custody or power. The inferences drawn by the Court may include an inference that is bad for your case.
