STANDARD ALLOCUTION FOR ACCUSED-IN-PERSON
AT CRIMINAL CASE DISCLOSURE CONFERENCE IN SUBORDINATE COURTS
(SECTION 164)CRIMINAL PROCEDURE CODE 2010
(CHAPTER )

The prosecution has served on you the Case for the Prosecution. The Case for the Prosecution must contain —

- (a) the charge which the prosecution intends to proceed with against you at trial;
- (b) a summary of the facts in support of the charge;
- (c) a list of names of the witnesses that the prosecution will be calling to testify at your trial;
- (d) a list of the exhibits that the prosecution intends to admit as evidence at your trial; and
- (e) any statement that you may have made at any time, which was recorded by an officer of a law enforcement agency under any law, which the prosecution intends to admit as evidence as part of the prosecution's case.

You should go through the Case for the Prosecution, and ensure that you understand its contents.

If you require more time to review your position, you may apply to the Court for an adjournment. You must state your reasons why the Court should consider granting you such an adjournment. Whether the Court grants an adjournment is a matter for the Court to decide.

If you intend to plead guilty to the charge against you, you may inform the Court of this now.

How do you wish to proceed?

{If the accused person does not indicate that he either wishes to seek an adjournment or plead guilty to the charge(s), the following shall be administered.}

You are required to file with this Court a copy of your Case for the Defence. You must also serve a copy of your Case for the Defence on the prosecution, and on every co-accused, if any, who is claiming trial with you. This must be done no later than 2 weeks from today, that is, no later than [date].

Your Case for the Defence must contain —

- (a) a summary of your defence to the charge, and the facts in support of your defence;
- (b) a list of names of the witnesses that you intend to call to testify at your trial;

---

THE SCHEDULE — continued

- (c) a list of exhibits that you intend to admit as evidence at the trial; and
- (d) any objections to any issue of fact in relation to any matter contained in the Case for the Prosecution.

If you raise any objections to any issue of fact on which evidence will be produced by you, you should state the nature of the objection.

If you do not file your Case for the Defence on the Court and serve it on the prosecution and on every other co-accused, if any, the Court may draw any inference that it thinks fit at your trial. The Court may also draw any inference as it thinks fit if your Case for the Defence does not contain all the mandatory documents and information mentioned earlier. If you put forward a case at trial that differs from, or is inconsistent with the Case for the Defence that you had filed and served, the Court may also draw such inference as it thinks fit. The inferences drawn by the Court may include an inference that is bad for your case.

Within 2 weeks after you file your Case for the Defence with the Court and serve it on the prosecution and on every co-accused, if any, the prosecution will provide you with the following —

- (a) all other statements that you may have given and recorded by an officer of a law enforcement agency under any law in relation to the charge which the prosecution intends to proceed against you at trial;
- (b) copies of documentary exhibits mentioned in the Case for the Prosecution; and
- (c) if you pay the prescribed fee of [amount], any criminal records that you may have.

The above documents will not be given to you if you do not file and serve your Case for the Defence. However, the Prosecution may still adduce these statements, exhibits or records as evidence at the trial.
