Computation of Development Baseline

3.—(1) In determining the Development Baseline of any land under section 36(1) of the Act, the value of any authorised development of that land shall be determined in accordance with the formula (C x D)

where C is the floor area of the development of the land, being an authorised development to be used for any purpose and which satisfies one or more of the following criteria:

- (a) development charge, where payable in respect of the authorised development, has been paid;

(b) no development charge is payable in respect of the authorised development by reason of any exemption or remission under the Act or the repealed Planning Act (Cap. 232, 1990 Ed.); or

(c) development charge is not payable in respect of the authorised development under the written law then in force when the development was authorised; and

D is the rate corresponding to both the geographical sector of the land and the Use Group within which that purpose falls.

(2) In determining the Development Baseline for any land referred to in section 36(5) of the Act, the value of the last authorised development of that land before the material date shall be determined in accordance with the formula (E x F)

where E is the floor area permitted for any purpose for that last authorised development of the land before the material date; and

F is the rate corresponding to both the appropriate geographical sector of the land and the Use Group within which that purpose falls.

[S 756/2007 wef 01/01/2008]

where A_1 is the floor area of the development for any purpose which was previously authorised and is to be retained in the intended development; and

B_1 is the rate corresponding to both the appropriate geographical sector of the land and the Use Group within which that purpose falls; and

- (b) the value of the intended development to be authorised by the written permission as is referred to in section 36(7)(b) of the Act shall be determined in accordance with the formula ($A_2 \times B_2$)

where A_2 is the floor area of the intended development for any purpose to be authorised by a written permission; and

[S 337/2008 wef 01/07/2008]

(2) Notwithstanding paragraph (1), where —

- (a) a development of land is authorised subject to the condition that the total floor area of the development shall be or shall not exceed a specified amount of floor area;
- (b) the total floor area of the development is subsequently found to exceed —
- (i) the specified amount of floor area in breach of the condition referred to in sub-paragraph (a); and
 - (ii) the maximum permissible floor area; and
- (c) the competent authority, pursuant to an application, agrees to grant written permission authorising the additional floor area, the value of any amount of the additional floor area of the development to be authorised by the written permission as is referred to in section 36(7)(b) of the Act, which is over and above the maximum permissible floor area, shall be determined in accordance with the formula

where A_3 is the amount of additional floor area of the development over and above the maximum permissible floor area for any purpose to be authorised by the written permission; and

[S 337/2008 wef 01/07/2008]

(3) In paragraph (2), unless the context otherwise requires —

Special provision for residential developments

7.—(1) Where any land is used or permitted to be used under the Act or the repealed Act (Cap. 232, 1990 Ed.) for a residential purpose only and the written permission granted for the use of that land for that purpose is expressed in terms of approved density of “persons per hectare” or “persons per acre” only, the formula in rule 3(1) shall apply as if all references to the floor area in that formula were substituted with references to the area obtained by multiplying firstly, the approved density with a factor of 0.0056, and then multiplying that product with the area of the land as specified in the plans which form the subject of the written permission.

[S 756/2007 wef 01/01/2008]

(2) For the purposes of paragraph (1), approved density, if expressed in terms of “persons per acre” shall be converted to be in terms of “persons per hectare”.

[S 756/2007 wef 01/01/2008]

(c) where any part of the common property of the residential development is designed or constructed to be used exclusively or predominantly for the purpose of any of the landed dwelling-houses or non-landed residential buildings, the floor area of that part of the common property shall be reckoned as part of the floor area of the landed dwelling-houses or non-landed residential buildings, as the case may be; and

(d) with regard to any part of the common property of the residential development not falling within sub-paragraph (c), the rate to be applied in the formulae prescribed in rules 3 and 4 shall be the average of the 2 rates for Use Groups B1 and B2 corresponding to the appropriate geographical sector of the land on which the residential development is situated.

(4) For the purposes of paragraph (3), the common property of a residential development shall mean all floor area, which is neither —

where C_1 is the floor area of the development authorised for use for any purpose;

D_1 is the rate corresponding to both the appropriate geographical sector of the land and the Use Group within which that purpose falls; and 9.—(1) Where any land, or any building on or to be erected on any land, is intended to be developed for 2 or more purposes falling within 2 or more Use Groups, the development charge for the development of the land is to be determined in accordance with Part V of the Act and the formulae in rules 3 and 4, but with the following modifications in this rule.

(2) Where the land, or the building on or to be erected on the land, may be divided into parts, each of which is intended to be used exclusively for any one of the purposes falling within 2 or more Use Groups, Part V of the Act and these Rules apply to each part as if each part was a separate development.

(3) Where it is impracticable to divide any floor or part of a floor of the building on or to be erected on the land in the manner described in paragraph (2) —

 - (ii) state the floor area for each specified purpose,
- then, in determining the Development Ceiling properly attributable to the floor or part of a floor, B_2 in the formula specified in rule 4(1)(b) is the weighted average of the relevant rates for the specified purposes, calculated according to the amount of floor area for each specified purpose.
- (4) The development charge for written permission to develop the whole land is the aggregate of such of the following as may be applicable:
